

Managed Lands Deer Program

Overview

Managed Lands Deer Program, or MLDP, is an incredible opportunity for landowners that wish to enjoy a more liberalized harvest quota and less restrictive regulations. This is a complex program and there are incentives for advancement. The program is a valuable tool for those who are serious about managing deer populations or running a hunting operation.

There are two options of which a landowner can choose for their participation in MLDP. The first is the Harvest option. This option is available to landowners meeting low requirements and is often the first step. The downside to this option is that generally, a lower than preferred amount of MLDP tags are generated for the property.

The second option is known as the Conservation option. This has stricter requirements for entry such as population data, and habitat improvements for the past two years. While more difficult to obtain, it is highly sought after because more often than not, it generates a higher amount of MLDP tags than the Harvest option.
